Experience: NWN MCSEs Have Proven Experience with Active Directory.

Active Directory holds the power to simplify IT management, strengthen security, and extend the interoperability of your current systems and software. To capitalize on this, your organization needs employees with the expertise to manage Active Directory and to strategically plan what your network should do in the years ahead. No one is better prepared to do this than a Microsoft Certified Systems Engineer (MCSE) who is certified in Microsoft Windows 2003/2008.

MCSEs are among the most technically proficient professionals available to help your organization make a successful transition to the Windows 2003 operating system and to ensure that you reap the ongoing benefits that Windows 2003 and Active Directory are designed to deliver.

Certifications:

- Microsoft Gold Partner
- Microsoft Voice Partner Program (First Nationally to Federate with Microsoft)
